The Remarkable Safe Robbery. TRIAL OF THE BURGLARS AND SAFE ROBBERS-

THEIR FENCE THROWN DOWN.

Yesterday we gave an account of the arrest of the parties concerned in the robbery of Mr. F. A. Luiz's store, (when, the readers of the Star will remember, the robbers performed the remarkable feat of carrying away an iron safe and its contents;) the robbery of Max Weill's jewelry store, Pennsylvania avenue, near 3d street; W. G. Kieffer's segar store; J. L. Uffenheimer's store; W. H. Marlow's office, 7th street and canal; and the recent robbery of Beail & Bro., grocers, Bridge street, Georgetown. After the arrest of Collier and Holland in the act of robbing Hermann's store, in the Seventh Ward. THEIR FENCE THROWN DOWN and canal; and the recent robbery of Beail & Bro., grocers, Bridge street, Georgetown. After the arrest of Collier and Holland in the act of robbing Hermann's store, in the Seventh Ward, and they were committed for trial at court. Sergeant Gessford conveyed the prisoners to headquarters to have their likenesses taken, and there detectives McDevitt and Clarvoe recognized the very man they wanted in Holland, formerly an employee of Mr. Lutz. They at once reported their case to Superintendent Richards. They then accused Holland of the Lutz robbery. He at first denied it; but the detectives, with their usual tact, kept prying him with questions that forced him at last to the arrest of Jas. Baker, Jas. Young, alias McCann, alias Kioudle, Jas. Doyle, Robert Branzell, alias Tait, as stated in yesterday's Star, and subsequently of Albert Cumberland and Margaret Cumberland.
Yesterday, at 5 o'clock p. m., the trials were begun by Superintendent Richards, at headquarters. The trial room was crowded with officers, witnesses, and persons attracted by curiosity. The first prisoner tried was James Baker, who is entered upon the register as a thief by profession, is 26 years old, tall and raw boned, red hair, high cheek bones, gray eyes, and of a sullen disposition. He plead not guilty to all the charges.

Mr. F. A. Lutz was first sworn, and testified that his store was entered about the 21st of November, and his iron safe, containing his ledgers, checks, valuable papers, gold and silver coin, and other valuables, was stolen; the money was between $1,000 and $1,100. Mr. L. identified the safe recovered as the safe stolen, and a pair of quartz sleeve buttons, and a pair of gold buckles as his property, and in the safe when stolen.

Michael Holland testified that he was with the parties when the robbery was committed.

Michael Holland testified that he was with the parties when the robbery was committed. Jas. Baker was one. [Baker admitted that he was there.]

Baker here began to cross-examine Holland
as to who made the proposition to rob the store, but the Superintendent told Holland that he was but the Superintendent told Holland that he was not bound to commit himself, and Baker stopped his examination.

Detective Clarvoe testified that when they, the Detectives, accused Holland of robbing Luiz, he finally admitted that he and Baker and others did it, and told where the safe could be found, as well as many of the articles. In their search the Detectives found that what Holland said was strictly true.

Detective McDevitt corroborated Clarvoe's statement and added that Jas. Doyle and Rob't Branzell alias Tait, were the drivers of the wagon which conveyed the safe away as Holland told them.

wagon which conveyed that he, with the Sergeant Gessford testified that he, with the Detectives, went to Baker's house to search it. The females there said Baker was not there. In the search they found a lot of stamps. Some ene proposed to look for a cellar in the house, they did and found a trap door. He went into the cellar and found Baker there covered with mud. As they came away Baker remarked that they (the Detectives) had a fine thing on him, and he was good for eighteen years.

Superintendent Richard fixed his bail at Statement and the was good for eighteen years.

The next case taken up was Beall & Bro.

Mr. G. W. Beall testified that his store was forcibly entered on Wednesday night last, and a lot of tea, bacon, and nuts, candles, &c., were taken from the store. Also, a pair of boots belonging to Rev. A. A. E. Taylor, and some clothing belonging to Mr. Green. Witness believed the teas recovered to be his, and identified the key of his safe which was also recovered. The boots and clothes were identified.

M. Hollagat testified that he, with Baker and Collier, performed this act. They took no meat; but took the tea, candles, nuts, raisins, &c., and the safe key. Saw some bonds in the safe, $50,000 he believed, but may be it was a $100 and a $000. Baker said the key would be useful a year or eighteen months hence, when they might go in and take the money. They took the things to a lady in Center Market, who bought all for $60.

Detective McDevittlestified that the boots came from Holland's house; the pants from Baker's sister's house, where Collier had left them. The tea they found with a lady in the market.

Michael Holland sworn.—Testified that these men were the drivers of the wagon that conveyed the safe from Mr. Lutz's store. Witness made the bargain with them. Never let them know what his business was, but told them he wanted them to go in the country. Went first to Branzeli and offered him $10. He refused, and said he would not go under $20. Witness promised him $20 if they succeeded. Left a watch as security for $20. Branzell drove up the alley to the back door; they had got the safe to the door then; it was raining all the time. Branzell and Doyle both went up the canal. Witness knew Doyle in Richmond, but never knew Branzell before. Never knew Doyle in any similar business before, but had heard Baker say that Doyle had been in it. The prisoners helped to put the safe in the wagon, but is not sure tnat they helped to put it out.

Michael Holland testified that he was present when the goods were taken to the market and sold to the woman at the bar. The tea was sold for 75 cents a pound. [Mr. Beall fixed its value at $2 a pound.] The lady never asked how it was obtained. Her husband, the male prisoner, helped to weigh it. Witness sold her nine pairs of shoes for $12. [Mr. Wilson fixed the value at not less than $3 per pair.] She gave $5 for about 250 cigars. [Mr. Keiffer said they cost $30 per 1000.] Mrs. Cumberland said she would buy clothing, especially a suit for Christmas. Told witness how to bring the things safely. HURRAHING FOR JEFF. DAVIS.—Hundreds of young men paraded the streets of this city during the entire day yesterday, hallooing and cheering for Jeff. Davis, Gen. Lee and other noted rebels, with the most deafening and stentorian voices. Many of them were dressed in Confederate gray, and all were armed with the old regulation pistol, better known as "the horse pistol." There seemed to be a general concert.

Cumberland stopped talking, and Superintendent Richards ordered them to give bail in $1,000 each for court. These two prisoners are not in needy curcumstances as far as money and property is concerned. They are property owners, and when the bail was fixed the woman left her bank account for over the amount required, and $155 in cash as collateral security for herself while she went to get bail for herself and husband.

This closed the cases. Detectives Charvoe and McDevitt and Sergeant Gessford deserve great credit for their perseverance in this matter. old regulation pistol, better known as "the horse pistol." There seemed to be a general concert of action on the part of all the young men formerly identified with the rebel army, and those who had sympathized with them in their struggle to establish the confederacy. They traveled about the streets in squads of from ten to fifty, singing at the top of their voices all the rebel songs they ever had heard. They fired their pistols by platoons and by companies, and frightened women and children almost out of their senses. Their indecent songs and language finally drove all the ladies off the streets, and towards the middle of the afternoon hardly a respectable lady could be seen outside of her domicil.—Alexandria Journal, 26th.
